Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

Mass tourism refers to the phenomenon of large numbers of people visiting popular destinations. This form of tourism has become widespread in recent decades, fueled by affordable travel options and increasing disposable incomes. Cities and natural attractions that were once reserved for the privileged are now accessible to the general public, allowing millions to experience different cultures and landscapes.

One of the most noticeable effects of mass tourism is environmental degradation. Popular destinations, particularly those with fragile ecosystems, suffer from overcrowding, pollution, and the depletion of local resources. Coastal areas, for example, face damage from excessive waste, and heritage sites can suffer from wear and tear due to large crowds. Local communities also feel the strain as infrastructure struggles to keep up with the demands of thousands of visitors.

Economically, mass tourism can bring substantial revenue to destinations, creating jobs and supporting local businesses. Hotels, restaurants, and transport services benefit directly from the influx of visitors.

Although the benefits are not always evenly distributed, mass tourism can provide valuable income to some local businesses. In many cases, however, the profits generated from mass tourism are concentrated in the hands of large corporations, leaving local residents with few long-term advantages. Additionally, the seasonal nature of mass tourism means that jobs can be unstable, often disappearing in the off-season.

Mass tourism can be a powerful economic driver, but it presents challenges that need to be carefully managed. Governments, businesses, and travelers must work together to minimize its negative impacts. Sustainable tourism practices, such as limiting visitor numbers and supporting eco-friendly initiatives, are crucial to ensuring that future generations can continue to enjoy the beauty of popular travel destinations.

	e following questions
A significant	number of young peop	le have chosen career paths tha	at have little to do with their degrees.

A significant number of young people have chosen career paths that have little to do with their degrees. This trend is particularly prominent in the age of digital disruption, where industries are rapidly changing, and new job opportunities emerge almost daily. The traditional belief that a university degree should directly lead to a career in the same field is slowly fading as more young professionals step into roles that align less with their studies but offer them greater personal and financial fulfillment.

[I] One of the primary reasons for this shift is the changing nature of the job market. [II] With the rise of technology, online platforms, and a booming gig economy, young people now have access to career opportunities that were once unavailable or difficult to reach. [III] Many young people are motivated by the flexibility and creative freedom these roles offer, as well as the potential for higher pay and work-life balance, especially with the growing demand for remote work.

[IV] Another significant factor is the desire for personal fulfillment and a sense of purpose. Many young people are no longer content with simply earning a paycheck; they seek jobs that resonate with their passions and values. Careers in the arts, sustainable industries, and startups often offer more meaningful experiences, prompting individuals to take risks and step away from the traditional career paths. Furthermore, online learning platforms have made it easier for young professionals to upskill and transition into new fields, giving them the confidence to pursue non-traditional jobs.

Despite these opportunities, working outside one's major can come with challenges. The lack of formal training or experience in a new field can be a barrier, and many employers still favor candidates with degrees directly related to the job. However, these challenges are not insurmountable. Networking, internships, and continuous learning can help bridge the gap. For those willing to take risks and invest in their growth, the rewards can be substantial: increased job satisfaction, better income, and the chance to build a career that aligns with their personal interests and values.

Question 31 (696464): Where in paragraph 2 does the following sentence best fit?

"For instance, social media management, content creation, and digital marketing are fields that attract graduates from various disciplines like economics, medicine, or engineering." B. [II] C. [III] Question 32 (696465): The word prominent in paragraph 1 could be best replaced by A. brilliant B. noticeable C. successful D. obscure Question 33 (696646): The word their in paragraph 1 refers to B. career paths C. job opportunities D. young professionals A. roles Question 34 (696647): The phrase content with in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to B. satisfied with C. keen on A. upset about D. delighted with Question 35 (696648): According to paragraph 3, which of the following is NOT mentioned as a reason why young people seek careers outside their field of study?

A. the desire for more job satisfaction

- B. the desire for financial independence
- C. the pursuit of work that aligns with personal passions
- D. the chance to take risks and explore unconventional career paths

Question 36 (696649): Which of the following best summarizes paragraph 2?

- A. The job market has shifted due to technology and remote work opportunities, making jobs in fields like digital marketing more accessible and appealing to young people.
- B. The changing job market, driven by technology, online platforms, and the gig economy, offers young people new career opportunities that prioritize flexibility, freedom, pay, and work-life balance.
- C. Many young professionals now seek flexibility and creative freedom in their careers, with many transitioning into jobs like content creation, driven by the rise of the digital economy.
- D. The rise of remote work and online platforms provides young people with new career opportunities offering flexibility, pay, and work-life balance.

Question 37 (696650): Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. The trend of choosing non-traditional career paths is primarily due to the lack of job opportunities in students' fields of study.
- B. Employers always prefer candidates with degrees directly related to the job, regardless of their skills or experience.
- C. Online learning platforms have made it easier for young people to switch to new careers and gain skills outside their degrees.
- D. Young people are no longer interested in jobs that offer higher pay and work-life balance as they are more focused on personal fulfillment and meaningful work.

Question 38 (696651): Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined part in paragraph 4?

- A. A lack of formal training or experience in a new field can serve as a drawback, and many employers still recruit candidates with degrees that are equal to the position.
- B. A lack of formal training or experience in a new field has negative consequences, and many employers still advocate for candidates with degrees that are connected to the position.
- C. A lack of formal training or experience in a new field can be an advantage, and many employers still hire candidates with degrees that are suitable for the position.
- D. A lack of formal training or experience in a new field can present a challenge, and many employers still prefer candidates with degrees that are directly relevant to the position.

Question 39 (696652): Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?

A. Young professionals are willing to compromise on financial stability in order to follow their passions and work-life balance goals.

- B. The challenges faced by young people in transitioning to new careers are easily overcome with minimal effort.
- C. The lack of formal training or experience in a new field can be resolved and those willing to take risks can reap significant rewards.
- D. Young people are increasingly prioritizing traditional career paths over non-traditional ones due to the risks involved.

Question 40 (696653): Which of the following best summarises the passage?

- A. The rise of technology and the gig economy has led young people to seek non-traditional careers for better pay and work-life balance.
- B. Young people are shifting from traditional careers to passion-driven jobs, aided by online learning, with some serious challenges.
- C. Many young people pursue careers outside their degrees due to various factors, which can lead them to face some challenges, but these can be overcome.
- D. Technology and online platforms are enabling young people to pursue careers outside their degrees, prioritizing work-life balance and personal fulfillment.
