VIII. Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions that follow.

Scientists think that Earth is experiencing a very serious problem. The temperature is rising. According to scientific predictions, the 21st century will see significant changes in the climate. The water along the coast will be warmer. The impact on agriculture will be significant. Farmers will struggle to grow quality crops. The weather will be too dry in warm climates. It's possible for the water content to drop by 50%. The production of agriculture would significantly decline as a result.

By the middle of the twenty-first century, there could be a 1.5 to 5.6 degree Celsius increase in global temperature. Furthermore, the Arctic and Antarctic may see even more of a temperature increase. The great ice sheets may melt as a result of a rise in temperature, raising the oceans' level by one to two meters. It would submerge many coastal cities. Why is everything taking place like this?

The Sun maintains the temperature of the Earth and its atmosphere. The majority of the solar light that heats the Earth can enter the atmosphere. Sunlight heats the Earth, which then releases heat energy back into the atmosphere. The Earth's atmosphere lets most of this energy escape. But some of it is still there. Gases that absorb this energy and produce more heat include carbon dioxide, ozone, and water vapor. Earth then receives a return flow of this heat, warming the planet.

Question 28: Which of the following will be one of the results of warmer earth?

- A. Crops will be destroyed completely.
- B. The amount of water will decrease by half.
- C. Farmers will find it hard to deal with the heat.
