Attending music shows has become an increasingly popular way for aspiring singers to showcase their talents and gain recognition. These shows provide a platform for contestants to perform in front of a live audience and a panel of judges, who are often established professionals in the music industry. The process usually begins with auditions, where participants sing in hopes of advancing to the next round. Once selected, the contestants go through various stages of the competition, performing different songs and sometimes participating in themed challenges. The judges offer feedback, and in some shows, the audience votes to decide who moves forward. This interactive element adds excitement and allows viewers to feel involved in the process.

One of the key aspects of attending a music show is the exposure it provides. Contestants not only gain experience performing under pressure, but they also have the opportunity to build a fan base. Even those who do not win often continue their careers in music, using the experience and visibility they gained from the show. Moreover, the camaraderie among participants is often highlighted, as many singers form lasting friendships and support each other throughout the competition. This supportive environment can be encouraging, especially for newcomers who may feel nervous about performing.

In conclusion, joining music shows can be a valuable experience for aspiring singers. It offers a chance to grow as an artist, gain public attention, and connect with others in the industry. While the competition can be fierce, the benefits of participating often outweigh the challenges.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 34 to 40.

Music on social media has changed how artists and fans interact. Platforms like TikTok, Instagram, and YouTube help musicians reach people worldwide easily. Artists can share short videos, live performances, and behind-the-scenes content, creating personal connections with fans in real-time.

Social media can also make songs or performances go viral, making unknown artists famous quickly. This accessibility is crucial for independent musicians because it helps them distribute their music directly to listeners, which avoids traditional gatekeepers like record labels and radio stations. They can grow their fan base organically and develop dedicated followers.

Social media challenges and trends centered around music, such as dance routines or lip-sync battles, encourage users to be creative and active participants in the music experience. For fans, social media provides a platform to find new music, share favorite tracks, and even talk directly with admired artists.

However, social media can be challenging for artists as they need to maintain an active online presence. Balancing creativity with constant content creation is a new reality for musicians today. Despite these challenges, music on social media has made the industry more interactive, inclusive, and fast-paced than ever before.

A. unnoticed

B. popular

C. temporary

D. expensive

Viral = popular (phổ biến)

Question 37: Social media is important for musicians because it _____.

A. helps them avoid traditional gatekeepers like record labels.

B. allows them to perform live in front of large audiences.

C. provides a platform to create long videos for their fans.

D. requires them to create content consistently.

Đáp án đúng là A. helps them avoid traditional gatekeepers like record labels (giúp họ tránh các rào cản truyền thống như hãng đĩa).

Giải thích: This accessibility is crucial for independent musicians because it helps them distribute their music directly to listeners, which avoids traditional gatekeepers like record labels and radio stations.

--> Đoạn văn nhấn mạnh rằng truyền thông xã hội cho phép các nghệ sĩ độc lập phát hành nhạc trực tiếp đến người nghe mà không cần phải thông qua các kênh truyền thống như hãng đĩa hoặc đài phát thanh.

Question 38: The word “their” in the passage refers to _____.

A. platforms’

B. listeners’

C. musicians’

D. labels’

Đáp án đúng là C. musicians' (các nhạc sĩ).
