Read the following passage about a male nursery school teacher and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 23 to 30.

ToddlerWorld Nursery was delighted to employ a trainee - twenty-two-year-old Jonathan Brown as their first male nursery school teacher. He was also the only man who applied for the job, but, insists Margery Bowman, head teacher of ToddlerWorld, by far the best applicant. 'Both boys and girls will benefit from the experience of having a male role model in the nursery,' says mother of two, Marjory.

Jonathan has always been interested in childcare. His own mother is a childminder and his father is a teacher. 'I've always helped Mum with looking after all the children,' he says. 'I'm used to changing nappies, feeding babies, reading stories and playing with Lego.'

But Jonathan is a rare male in a female world. Only 2% of nursery teachers are men and this hasn't changed for ten years. Roger Olsen of the National Nursery Trust said, 'Men are often viewed with anxiety and suspicion in a children's environment. Or they are expected to do things the way women would do them. But men bring different things into childcare and this has to be recognised.' Jonathan agrees. He is a qualified under-7s football coach, and plans to introduce football lessons to the nursery for boys and girls.

What do Jonathan's friends think of his choice of career? 'Actually, most of them are pretty cool about it now,' he says, though they do make jokes about nappies. 'And I've found that girls are actually quite impressed - so that's good!'

Read the following passage about ugly fruits and vegetables and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 31 to 40.

When buying fresh fruit and vegetables, would you select a very curly cucumber, a carrot with two 'legs', or a potato with three heads? For many people, the answer is 'no' - they look for perfect produce when they go to the supermarket.

Not anymore! In France, a large supermarket chain, Intermarché, has started a marketing campaign to put ugly fruit and vegetables back on the shelves. And British TV chef Jamie Oliver has followed their lead, together with a large UK supermarket. Both the French and British supermarkets are selling their funny-shaped fruit and veg at a huge discount as an incentive for shoppers to opt for the less attractive versions.

Over the years, supermarkets have trained their customers to expect perfect fruit and veg, with many customers discarding produce that isn't 'perfect'. And until recently, there were numerous, very strict rules for supermarkets about the size and shape of fresh produce. Fortunately, there are now fewer rules, but customers need encouragement to change their shopping habits.

There is a good reason for this change in attitude. The rejection of misshapen produce results in a huge amount of waste: around 20-40% of food is thrown away before it even reaches the shops. Yet at the same time, we know that world food shortages are soon going to be a real and serious problem.

[I] Fortunately, it looks like these brave, but common-sense supermarket campaigns are working. It seems that these campaigns are going to be profitable, as well as environmentally friendly. [II] Other supermarkets have already experimented with the same idea, both within and outside Europe. [III] After all, it's the taste that counts. [IV]
