Working as an influencer, Jenna's days often revolve around taking photos and sharing her experiences on social media. Recently, she received a new skincare product from a well-known brand. As part of their agreement, she had to use the product for a week and then post a photo along with a review.

Jenna took her job seriously. She wanted to be honest with her followers, so she carefully documented her use of the product. After a week, she noticed some positive changes. Her skin felt smoother and looked brighter. When it was time to post her review, she shared a selfie and wrote about her genuine experience.

Her followers trust her because she always shares her real opinions, and that's why brands seek her endorsement. Her posts receive hundreds of comments, and people often say that they decide to try a product because of her recommendation. Being an influencer with responsibilities, Jenna enjoys helping her followers make informed choices.

Question 31. What is the main idea of the reading passage?
