Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

Conservation of endangered animals is an urgent issue in today's world. According to the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN), over 28,000 species of animals are currently facing extinction, with approximately 6,500 species listed as critically endangered. This alarming figure highlights the pressing need for conservation efforts worldwide. One notable example is the Javan rhinoceros (Rhinoceros sondaicus), with an estimated population of only about 80 individuals surviving in the wild, primarily in Ujung Kulon National Park, Indonesia. This species has suffered from habitat loss due to agricultural developments and poaching for their horns.

The main causes of the decline in these animal populations include habitat loss, poaching, and climate change. For instance, the white rhinoceros (Ceratotherium simum) has nearly gone extinct due to uncontrolled hunting, with only two northern white rhinos remaining, both females, living in a secure reserve in Kenya. These two rhinos symbolize the drastic consequences of human actions on wildlife and serve as a reminder of the urgent need for protective measures.

Conservation organizations are working tirelessly to reverse this trend. Many breeding and reintroduction programs have been implemented, such as the panda conservation program (Ailuropoda melanoleuca) in China, which has successfully increased the wild giant panda population to over 1,800 individuals. Additionally, investments in education and community awareness campaigns are crucial in protecting endangered species and their habitats.

The future of many animal species depends on our actions today. If we promote conservation measures, support protective programs, and implement comprehensive environmental policies, we can ensure that future generations will experience and appreciate the rich biodiversity of our planet. Collective efforts are essential to safeguard these remarkable creatures and secure their ecosystems for further time.

[I] In today's society, celebrities wield significant influence over young people. [II] With the rise of platforms like Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube, celebrities can easily connect with their audience, creating a more personal relationship that often translates into admiration and emulation. [III] This dynamic can lead to both positive and negative effects on youth, making it a crucial topic of discussion. [IV]

On one hand, celebrities can inspire young people to pursue their dreams and passions. Many celebrities use their platforms to advocate for important social issues, such as mental health awareness, environmental conservation, and equality. For instance, figures like Selena Gomez and Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson have openly discussed their struggles with mental health, encouraging young people to seek help and destigmatize these conversations. Such visibility can empower youth to take action and make positive changes in their lives and communities.

However, the influence of celebrities is not always beneficial. The unrealistic standards of beauty, success, and lifestyle often promoted by celebrities can lead to feelings of inadequacy among young people. When celebrities flaunt extravagant lifestyles or promote unattainable beauty ideals, it can create pressure on youth to conform to these images, potentially leading to issues like low self-esteem and body image disorders. Furthermore, the glamorization of negative behaviors, such as substance abuse or reckless living, can have detrimental effects on impressionable minds.

In conclusion, while celebrities hold the power to inspire and motivate young people, their influence can also lead to negative consequences. It is essential for youth to develop critical thinking skills and to recognize that celebrity lifestyles are often curated and not representative of reality. Encouraging a balanced perspective on celebrity influence can help empower young people to make informed choices and to follow their own paths rather than simply imitating those they admire.
