It is important to understand that obesity is not just an uncomfortable condition of the body. (18)_____. Many people are not aware of these problems, so they do not try to prevent the problems before they appear. This is unfortunate, since prevention (19) _____, though difficult. One of the worst health problems caused by obesity is Type 2 diabetes. One study found that about 80 percent of people with Type 2 diabetes are obese. People with diabetes do not have insulin (20)_____. Insulin helps the body to absorb, or take in, sugar. If the body cannot absorb sugar, several bad things, can happen. A person with diabetes can suffer from seizures (losing control of the body) or (21)_____. A number of other problems related to obesity have also been found. Obesity can cause heart disease. Heart disease happens when the vessels that deliver blood to the heart become blocked. (22)_____ that such people will suffer from heart attacks, which take place when the heart loses blood supply and (23)_____. Furthermore, obesity causes problems with breathing, especially when sleeping. Obese people are at high risk for arthritis as well as certain kinds of cancers. All of these problems, and others, can be prevented. Of course, losing weight is very difficult. Changing a lifestyle is hard and often painful. Even so, the results of obesity are much worse.

The Value of Walking

New research reveals that walking just 9.5 kilometers (6 miles) a week may keep your brain sharper as you get older. Scientists suggest that walking may protect aging brains from growing smaller and, in turn, preserve memory in old age.

‘Brain size shrinks in late adulthood, which can cause memory problems,’ study author Kirk Erickson of the University of Pittsburgh said in a news release. ‘Our findings should encourage further well-designed scientific trials of physical exercise in older adults as a very (24) _____ approach for preventing dementia and Alzheimer’s disease.’ For the study, the team asked 299 dementia-free seniors to record the distance they walked (25) _____ week.

Four years later, the participants were tested to see if they had developed signs of dementia. Then after nine years had passed, scientists scanned the participants’ brains to measure size. At the four-year test, researchers discovered subjects who walked the most had reduced their risk of developing memory problems by 50%. At the nine-year checkpoint, those (26) _____ walked at least 9.5 kilometers a week, had brains with a (27) _____ volume than those who didn’t walk as much.

This is not the first study to promote the benefits of walking in seniors. (28) _____, last spring, Harvard University found that women who walked regularly at a brisk pace had an almost 40% lower risk of stroke.

Hawaii is often considered to be one place in the world where you can find paradise. But when I arrived in Hawaii, I was shocked to discover beaches were covered in plastic rubbish washed up from around the world. As I dug through the sand, I realised the sandy beach was being transformed into a plastic beach. A chill went down my spine. From the beaches of Hawaii to the seas around Britain, we are polluting our own environment.

Beaches are now covered in more rubbish than ever before. The plastic we see on our beaches is just a small amount of the plastic waste that exists in our oceans. Scientists believe that sea currents have created five huge garbage areas in our oceans, including the one in the North Atlantic. This is a global problem for which we are all responsible.

Plastic makes our life easier, but its production and use are completely out of control. Because plastic rubbish in the oceans looks like food, it is being eaten by small fish, which in turn is eaten by large fish, which in turn is eaten by us. Plastic is damaging our beaches, polluting the oceans, and poisoning our food chain. The consequences are still not fully understood, but they are likely to be terrible.

We need to stop using plastic bags for packaging and single-use water bottles. These make up most of the plastic garbage in the oceans. In Bangladesh and Kenya, they have stopped using plastic bags completely. The UK has put a tax on plastic bags. Many supermarkets around the world are not packing goods in plastic.

The future of our beaches, our seas, and the food chain is at risk. This is an environmental problem that we need to solve immediately.

Broadcasting, perhaps the greatest invention of the last century, has come a long way; and the BBC is one of the most important and trusted broadcasters in the world today.

The British Broadcasting Company was established in 1922. Four years later, it changed its name to the British Broadcasting Corporation, better known as the BBC. It was not the world's first radio station. There had already been public radio broadcasts in Britain before 1920.

From the beginning the BBC was a public service radio, but also an independent operator. In the early days of BBC radio, there was not a lot of news on the radio. There were music, drama, discussions and children's programs; but news was not broadcast until after 7 p.m., to avoid competition with the newspapers!

In 1936 the BBC began the world's first television service. Only a few thousand people in London could receive those first flickering images. Nevertheless, people liked what they saw, and as the number of transmitters increased, more and more people went out to buy new television sets. In 1937, tennis was broadcast from Wimbledon for the first time. Then in 1938, football's Cup Final could be seen, live, by hundreds of thousands of people for the first time ever. Since 1946, the BBC has become one of Britain's most famous institutions. Today it has several national television channels, lots of radio channels and a growing number of international services.
